

IN SEARCH OF A TECHNO-COMPLETE LANGUAGE FOR ENGINEERS

ANANDARUP CHATTERJEE & DIPAK CHATTERJEE

HR Executive & Principal, Institute of Engineering & Management, Kolkata, India

ABSTRACT

The form and quality of English to be imparted to the Engineers in non-English speaking countries is a long sought for question. Researches are going in every such country as to the right form and structure of English language suitable for those countries and interestingly the opinions have not converged as yet. This paper attempts to pinpoint the lacunae in those approaches and suggests a unified approach for an acceptable solution that will transcend the age-old barriers.

KEYWORDS: Techno-Complete, Vocabulary